MESSAGE FROM THE VICE CHAIR

Commerce Lexington, along with its many partners in the community, have championed the efforts of many small businesses across our community and region, including women-owned, minority-owned, and veteran-owned businesses. The successful programs of our Community and Minority Business Development (CMBD) Division have been recognized nationally for providing a high level of service and assistance to small businesses.

The CMBD staff works to promote and sustain the economic growth, development and self-sufficiency of small businesses and entrepreneurs through strategic and business planning services, procurement assistance, access to lending tools, and the expertise of a full complement of economic professionals.

With access to capital being the number one driver in growing a successful small business, one of Commerce Lexington's longstanding programs, the Access Loan Program through its 26 lenders, has facilitated nearly $26 million dollars in loans to small businesses since its inception in 2001. Almost one-third of those loans have been received by minority-owned businesses.

Since 2013, our Minority Business Accelerator program has assisted scalable minority businesses that have the best opportunity to partner with large entities and companies and grow jobs here in the Greater Lexington region. To date, the program has assisted members with contracts of $77.9 million. The possibilities are still endless as we search for other minority-owned businesses to take the leap and be part of the program.

To complement programs like the Business Owners Advisory Boards (BOAB), the Salute to Small Business Awards, and our Peer Groups, Commerce Lexington began offering a free six-week small business training program called Money Smart for Small Business. The Money Smart Program is SBA sanctioned and offered through the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) platform. More than 85 business owners and prospective entrepreneurs have taken advantage of this training. These are just some of the opportunities that we offer to help small businesses grow and thrive.

Over the years, our community has welcomed visits from many other chamber leaders – many of whom have studied our CMBD best practices with the intent to replicate them back in their respective cities. Commerce Lexington's Senior Vice President, Community & Minority Business Development Tyrone Tyra represents the organization nationally by serving on the Association of Chamber of Commerce Executives' Economic Mobility & Opportunity Division.

As you read this letter, think of how you, as an emerging or existing business owner, can take advantage of these services and opportunities to create a more successful future for your business and the people you employ. Whether you need financing or other support services, Commerce Lexington is here to help your business grow and prosper!

Money Smart Alliance Member, Commerce Lexington hosts financial literacy course.

RACIAL EQUITY PLEDGE

Commerce Lexington Inc.'s Racial Equity Pledge challenges the region's business community to build a more inclusive economy based on equal opportunity and advancing racial equity. By signing this pledge, we commit to pursuing inclusivity and equality for underrepresented and marginalized community groups and agree to increase efforts and transparency around conscious efforts to attack poverty, narrow the racial wealth gap, and increase equity for area residents.

We recognize that living up to this pledge requires a necessary and comprehensive overhaul of the status quo, however, we are ready to seize the opportunity to create sustainable solutions over a multi-year horizon that will position Commerce Lexington Inc. as a leader in this work.

Signing this pledge is an agreement to pursue change intentionally and consistently within our business and the broader community. As business leaders, our time in history is now and our action matters, now more than ever. We pledge to make a difference by working toward minority business economic inclusion and actively supporting underrepresented and marginalized businesses and talent.

Commerce Lexington President and CEO, Bob Quick, said, "Small businesses are the backbone of our economy, leading the way nationally in job creation, innovation, and creativity. Most of our members are in fact small businesses that are there for us every day providing great products and services. It takes a special person to be a small business owner, and our Salute to Small Business Awards program enables the community to recognize their hard work and great sacrifice."

Award Eligibility:

- Businesses must be active members of Commerce Lexington
- Businesses must have completed three (3) or more full years of operation in the local market with fewer than 150 employees.

MONEY SMART

Many people have dreams of owning their own business, but often they don't know where to start. It takes research, proper planning, financing and much more to put oneself in a position to realize the dream of owning and operating a business. In 2023, Commerce Lexington began offering Money Smart for Small Business classes at no cost for aspiring entrepreneurs and existing small business owners. This six-week program developed jointly by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) and the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) features an introduction to topics related to starting and managing a small business. Some of the modules include planning for a healthy business, types of business structures, banking services, time management, and more. Food is also provided during the classes.

Commerce Lexington's Senior Vice President of Community & Minority Business Development, Tyrone Tyra, said, "We are excited to be able to continue these valuable classes at no cost to business owners and entrepreneurs across our community and region. The classes provide important information related to building and maintaining a successful business. If you've ever thought about starting your own business, Money Smart is a great foundation for it. Existing business owners have even found the classes valuable as a refresher."

The Money Smart for Small Business sessions are held in the fall and then the first of the year in the winter. For more information, contact Tyrone Tyra at ttyra@commercelexington.com.
